Atlantic Fast Line

Terms of C. P. R. Offer Set Forth in President's Annual Report.

Bonus Asked By Company For a Weekly Twenty Knot Service.

Progress of Canada and Expansion of Transportation Business.

Montreal, Oct. 1.—At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the C. P. R. Co., held today, the following directors were re-elected unanimously: Right Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, K. M. G.; Sir William Van Horne, K.C.M. G.; Richard B. Angus; Edmund B. Osler, M. P.; Wilmot D. Matthews; George R. Harris; Sir Sanford Fleming, K.C.M.G.; Thos. Skinner; Charles R. Hosmer; Sir Thos. G. Shaughnessy.

At the meeting of the new board, Sir William C. Van Horne was re-elected chairman of the board, and Sir Thos. G. Shaughnessy, president of the company. In moving the adoption of the report, the president said:

"The twenty first annual report of the directors is now submitted for your approval and furnishes most satisfactory and striking evidence of the company's position and of the progress and prosperity of the territory served by its lines.

"Keen and growing interest in the fertility and productiveness of Northwestern Canada is indicated by the increase in your land sales during the past year. Settlers attracted by cheap lands and agricultural conditions that assure to them and their children farms and homes on a basis of investment, not now possible in the thickly people districts south of the international boundary, are coming into Manitoba and the Territories in gratifying numbers. Nearly all of them will make excellent farmers and most desirable citizens. As stated in the report, the last of the five per cent. land grant bonds are now being paid off. With the extinguishment of these there will remain against your lands 3½ per cent. bonds, to the amount of $15,000,000. Under the terms of the statute and the mortgage, by which these bonds are secured, the proceeds of land sales will be deposited with the Dominion government until the amount reaches the face value of the bonds, the government in the meantime paying interest on the deposits at the rate of 3½ per cent. per annum. By referring to the item in the balance sheet of deferred payments of land sales,' which yield six per cent. per annum, you will see that neither the principle nor interest of these bonds need, for any lengthy period, give you much concern.

"When the subject of an improved Atlantic service between Great Britain and Canada was receiving consideration in London, your directors thought it wise to submit to the Canadian government on behalf of the company, a proposition to provide what they believe to be the best and the most practicable service under existing conditions. The company offered, subject to certain traffic arangements, to establish a weekly and a 20-knot steamship service between Liverpool and a St. Lawrence port during the summer months, Halifax to be the Canadian port during the winter months, for a subsidy of £265,000 sterling per annum during the first ten years, with a graduated reduction in the amount of the subsidy during the two following periods of five years, the ships to be most modern in every respect, and to be built especially for the route. In addition to this, the company signified its willingness to furnish a fleet of modern freight steamers, of 10,000 tons capacity, each sailing at a speed of about twelve or thirteen knots per hour, serving Canadian ports.

"Up to the present time your directors have no information as to the policy likely to be adopted by the government. It is evident, however, that whatever may be the outcome of the negotiations for the fast mail service, the rapid growth of your export tonnage, the necessity for being in a position to meet the rates of our competitors, makes it imperative that your company be so situated on the Atlantic that it can quote through rates of freight and give through bills of lading without being compelled to negotiate for space and rates with independent steamship lines. To that end, there will be submitted for your approval a resolution authorizing the directors to make arrangements for the charter or control of vessels, if and when, in their opinion, they are required for the protection of the company's freight interests on the Atlantic ocean. It is not expected, of course, that these freight vessels, when provided, will receive any government subsidy, and therefore there will be no restrictions to prevent your company from running them between such ports as may best suit the purposes of the company.

"The rapid and pronounced increase in the volume of traffic leaving little opportunity to provide the additional facilities required for handling it economically, caused a perceptible increase in the ratio of working expenses for the year. Expenditures are being made as rapidly as possible to meet present and future requirements. While of course there will be years, when, from uncontrollable causes, our revenue will suffer some diminution, it may be safely assumed that the settlement and development of territory now in progress promise a general improvement in your earnings during the next few years, even more satisfactory and gratifying than the advance made during the past seven years. Indeed, in moving the adoption of the annual report, and congratulating the shareholders on the excellent position of their finances, I cannot help personally expressing my conviction that the company has barely entered upon the threshold of the expansion and success that the future has in store for it."

A lease of the Ottawa, Northern and Western Amalgamated lines, and an issue of consolidated debenture stock on account of the Pheasant Hills branch, referred to in the annual report, were authorized.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the directors to hold, charter, work and run such steamships as they may find necessary to provide for and protect the trans-Atlantic traffic of the company, and a by-law relating to the election of directors referred to in the annual report, was approved.

The Fall Fair At Westminster

Corner Stone of the Carnegie Library Laid by Masonic Grand Lodge.

Displays at Exhibition Are Very Fine and Varied.--Today's Lacrosse.

From Our Own Correspondent.

New Westminster, Oct. 1.—The attendance at the exhibition today was not very large, about three or four thousand people. Yesterday 5,780 paid admission, besides hundreds having passes and membership tickets. This constitutes a record for a first day.

This morning sports took place on Columbia street, near the C. P. R. station, where cyclists performed bicycle tricks and were charged for their plucky work.

At half-past two this afternoon 200 Masons, representing all parts of the province and many from Washington state, left the Masonic temple and marched with the city band to City Hall square, where the corner stone of the new Carnegie library building was laid with imposing ceremonies by Grand Master E. E. Chipman, assisted by members of the Grand lodge.

The grand master was presented with a beautifully engraved silver trowel as a memento of the occasion. After the stone was lowered into place, and after being declared plumb, it was pronounced to be well and truly laid.

The Westminster intermediate lacrosse team followed up the success of the seniors yesterday by defeating the Vancouvers by 7 goals to 1. Westminster had the better of the game all through and were never hard pressed. Mr. C. L. Cullin, of Victoria, refereed. Some good lacrosse was but up, but both teams lacked practice.

Judge Bole delivered an eloquent address.

The Shamrocks will have some changes in the line-up tomorrow, but the Westminsters will be the same as on Tuesday. Betting is in favor of Westminster.

The Masons held a grand banquet in St. Patrick's hall tonight.

Addresses on forestry were given in the City hall tonight. Sir Henri Joly was one of the speakers.

The exhibits in the section devoted to the products of the soil are varied and more than usually numerous. Besides every section of the province, Dawson and White Horse are represented. There are fruit, flowers, grain, hops, dairy produce and honey from Cariboo, Yale, Okanagan, Kamloops, Lillooet, Mission, Agassiz, Kent, Comox, Vancouver, South Vancouver, Chilliwack, Surrey, Delta and other districts.

In live stock and poultry the exhibits in numbers and quality far surpass other years. In the mineral hall the exhibits of ore are twice as numerous as last year, and Vancouver Island takes the lead in an attractive display as well as quality of the ore shown. The product of the provincial smelters in gold and copper matte was shown for the first time, and proved a drawing card. The Yukon is also well represented for first time.

In the machinery building Vancouver Island firms make splendid exhibits. One of the most attractive is that of E. G. Prior & Co. The manufacturers of the province had splendid exhibits in the main building. The B. C. Timber & Trading Co. show a large display of the products of the forest, and specimens turned out from their sash, door and box factory, their turning and moulding shops and shingle mills. The Western Condensed Milk Co. have a fine display.

The canopy of the main building was decorated with nets and fishing appliances, boat oars and floats interwoven with bunting.

In the art line the exhibit of amateur painting, photographs, map drawing, etc., was up to the standard of former years. The needle work display was very creditable, and quite up to last year, and reflects credit on the patience, artistic ability and taste of the exhibitors. The wood carving was also excellent. A splendid exhibit from the Vancouver school boys was shown. This was work turned out at the Macdonald Manual Training school, under Superintendent Northrop and Mr. Campbell.

GRAIN SHIPMENTS.

Amount Already Reported Handled by the Railways.

Winnipeg, Oct. 1.—Inspector Horn gives out statements showing the total number of cars of grain shipped from the West through Winnipeg. During the month of September there were 4,330 cars of grain inspected here. This makes a total of 3,680,500 bushels of new crop. The percentage of No. 1 hard wheat is also very large, showing 2,426,000 bushels out of the total number of cars, which includes all grains. The C. P. R. share of this was 3,412 cars, while the Canadian Northern shipped 918 cars. The amount of wheat already handled this season is as follows: Shipped through Winnipeg, 3,680,500 bushels; delivered at C. P. R. points, 5,516,000 bushels.

A Fort Qu'Appelle despatch says the Governor-General and party are camped at the head of the lake and about 12 miles distant, and enjoying the shooting. Capt. Gilpin Brown, N. W. M. P., Regina, is in charge of the escort.

Mr. Borden and party attended a Conservative mass meeting at Moosomin today.

The Sewer Question

Alderman Barnard Forcibly Presents the Case For Extending System.

Outsiders Who Reap No Advantage Taxed For Benefit of More Fortunate.

Scheme By Which Sewer Rentals Should Pay Interest and Sinking Fund.

Alderman Barnard has taken the lead in the City Council in advocating the extension of the sewerage system of the city. Interviewed by a representative of the Colonist, Mr. Barnard was found very willing to talk upon the subject he has so close at heart. He said:

"At the present time we have a sewerage system which has cost $430,000, $30,000 borrowed in 1888; $300,000 in 1890 and $100,000 in 1894. The interest and sinking fund on this debt amounts to between $21,000 and $22,000 a year. The area covered by the system roughly speaking, is bounded by Queen street on the north, Cook street on the east, the harbor on the west, and only includes a small portion of James Bay. In area this district is about one-third of the city, in assessed value it is about one-half of the city. Several thickly populated portion of the city are outside it.

"In interest and sinking fund the city has paid on this account something like $243,000, of which there is $50,000 or so at the credit of the sinking fund.

"The annual sewer rental is $3 per annum for the first closet, and $1.00 for additional ones. The revenue derived from this source is under $7,000 per annum.

"It costs the ratepayers who are outside the sewerage area very much more to dispose of their sewage than it does those within it, certainly not less than $12 per annum, and this charge upon them far more than offsets the $7,000 paid as sewer rental by those inside the area served by the system. Besides this $7,000 does not relieve the rates, but goes into construction wholly.

"To my mind it is a rank injustice that people who are not connected with the system should during the last 10 years have paid $120,000 towards the cost of this sewerage system from which they derive no benefit at all, and should have to look forward to paying $11,000 a year for interest and sinking fund for 40 years before the present system is paid for.

"I think that if the cost of a sewerage system is to be placed upon the general rates, then all the ratepayers should be provided for. If all the ratepayers cannot be provided for, then those who are should do the paying.

"If the system was general it would not matter so much whether rates or rentals paid the interest and sinking fund. But at present one part of the ratepayers is paying for the benefit of others. I have not heard of any householder who has sewer connection offering to pay for the private scavengering necessary to those who have not.

"Now my scheme is simply this, to make the sewer rentals pay the interest and sinking fund on the proposed extended system, and to borrow upon this revenue to complete the system. As the completion of the system goes on the rentals can be reduced as its greater efficiency admits and when it is all completed the cost of payment can be spread over the whole system, which will thus be self-supporting.

"But Mr. Barnard is not the outsider, and the insider as well, helping to pay for something which has enhanced the value of vacant property inside the charmed circle? In other words, if you place interest and sinking fund against rentals, should not the man who owns a vacant lot which is more saleable because there is a main sewer within reach pay something?

"I am not yet prepared to say whether he should or should not, but I see what you mean. You mean that if the sewerage system is to be made eventually self-supporting and the cost met by those who receive advantage, then all who receive advantage should contribute, the owner of a vacant lot as well as the householder."

"Exactly."

"Well, there is a good deal in that. I have not looked at the matter from that point of view yet. But I will. The question should not be let drop until it is thrashed out from all points of view." "Do you consider the city in a good sanitary condition?"

"No I do not. Far from it. But I have been taking up so far the injustice which is being done the ratepayers who are not within reach of sewerage connection. They are under great expense to keep their own premises in a sanitary condition, and are at the same time contributing heavily to make sanitation easy for the others. It is not fair, that is all, and something must be done."

A STRANGE THEORY.

Toronto World's Version of Mr. Tarte's Actions.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—(Special)—The World says that the feeling is growing in Conservative circles that Mr. Tarte is doing a hand-spring performance and has a thorough understanding with his colleagues, and that the game he is playing is one of bluff, or, as one member of the Commons said yesterday, it is a put-up job, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier will bring on a general election within the next three months. The Conservative opinion, according to the World, is that the ministers will blow hot and cold as heretofore on the question of a fiscal policy, but that a private tip will be given to manufacturers that there will be an increase in the tariff. The Liberals will come out as defenders of the British preferential, and they will try to carry the country and then help Premier Ross to carry Ontario on his second appeal.

Montreal, Oct. 1.—La Patrie says J. A. Smart, deputy minister of the interior, is to be appointed governor of the Yukon to replace Mr. Ross.

La Patrie says that Mr. Tarte leaves for Manitoba and the West on October 12.

COAL FAMINE IN NEW YORK

In Small Quantities Sold to the Poor People at a Cent a Pound.

New York, Oct. 1.—The coal situation in New York may be described worse than ever today on account of the increasing fear that relief may not come before much suffering has resulted. The supply of hard coal in the tenement districts is now at such a low ebb that dealers are charging their customers a trifle over one cent a pound. Before the strike a pail holding 20 pounds of coal, sold for six cents, the same quantity costs today 22 cents. In Jewish quarters packing cases and lumber used in street construction are much in demand. Coke is practically exhausted, and the large bakers who formerly used this entirely for fuel are now burning cordwood. Owners of flats and downtown buildings are in a state bordering on a panic. A number said today that they were unable to get more than a ton of coal at a time, and in one case $25 was asked.

The gas companies are beginning to refuse more contracts, owing to the great demand for gas as a fuel, and it is announced at the office of the Standard Oil company that the supply of oil stoves cannot begin to fill the orders received within the last two months. The scarcity of coal is becoming a serious matter at Staten island. Four coal yards closed yesterday, and two bakery shops have had to close for want of coal.

Scores of women and children may be seen all day collecting the drift wood which floats down the bay.

The injured man was sent to th Brandon hospital after the wound was dressed. The other has not yet been captured.

SHIPPING COMBINE.

Incorporated With Hundred and Twenty Millions Capital.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 1.—The ship combine was incorporated here this afternoon by the filing of papers amending the certificate of incorporation of the International Navigation Company, which was filed in June, 1893, with an authorized capital of $15,000,000. The amended certificate filed today changes the name to that of the International Mercantile Marine Company, with authorized capital of $120,000,000, of which one-half is to be preferred stock, with six per cent. cumulative dividends. The company is also authorized to issue $75,000,000 of 4½ per cent. bonds.

NAVAL RESERVE.

Training of Newfoundland Sailors to Be Extended.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 1.—The Admiralty is so satisfied with the success of the naval reserve movement among Newfoundland fishermen that it has decided to double the contingent, which has enlisted for a six-months' cruise this winter in the Carribean sea. The cruiser Charybdis and the Crescent, the latter the flagship on the station, will each take fifty naval reserves. The Admiralty has agreed to station the naval reserve training ship Calypso at St. John's instead of Placentia Bay, because of the superior advantages for enrolling volunteers here.

Mrs. Chas. Smith of Jimes, Ohio, writes: I have used every remedy for sick headache I could hear of for the past fifteen years, but Carter's Little Liver Pills did me more good than all the rest.

A NEW MEDAL.

To Be Given for the South African War.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—The Evening Telegram's cable from London says: The medal to be given to those who served in the latter period of the South African war, including Canadians, will be a new one struck by special order of the King.

The date for the next Palma trophy competition has been set for July 11, 1903, or two days prior to the opening of the National Rifle Association meet at Bisley.

CRAFT MURDER.

Three Men Committed For Trial in New York.

New York, Oct. 1.—The coroner's jury in the case of the murder of Capt. Jas. B. Craft returned a verdict today that Craft came to his death by violence at the hands of Thomas Tobin, Alex. McInery and Robt. S. Kelly. The three accused men were committed to the Tombs without bail to await the action of the grand jury. The headless body and the partly burned head of the captain were found last Saturday in this city, in the basement of a building occupied by a resort known as the Empire Garden.

CANADIAN TRADE.

Exports to France—The Fast Line Project.

Montreal, Oct. 1.—At today's meeting of the Chambre de Commerce, a letter was read from Sir Wilfrid Laurier dated Geneva, Switzerland. It is in answer to a communication from the chambre urging Sir Wilfrid to secure better treatment for Canadian goods from France. Canadian goods not imported direct do not get the advantage of the Franco-Canadian treaty. The Premier states that pending the establishment of a direct line between Canada and France, he has reason to hope that Canadian products shipped via United States ports will escape special entry duties.

The Star's London cable says: The British government's agreement with the Cunard line, it is expected, will have an important influence on the Canadian fast mail negotiations. If, for instance, the British government is willing to lend money to maintain a mercantile marine, why not for the building of Canadian as well as New York steamers? The owners would then get money at 2¾ instead of 3½ and 4 per cent. The fact that the Cunard line undertakes to build two 24-knot boats is accepted most regretably as almost disposing of the idea of Canadian steamers rivalling the New York lines. Estimates prove that 24-knot boats cost at least one million and a half dollars each more than 20-knot steamers, upon which the Canadian Pacific estimates.

PLANS FOR SWIFT CRUISER.

Kaiser to Build Turbine-Propelled Ship Faster Than Ocean Liners.

Emperor William is about to order for the German navy a turbine-propelled cruiser, the speed of which will exceed that of the fastest liner afloat. The new vessel will be equipped with two of the most powerful turbine engines ever built, each of which will have horse-power of 5,000 tons, equivalent to a speed of 24 knots an hour. The new engines are the inventions of Professors Reidler and Stumpf, of the Royal Technical University, of Berlin, the personal advisers of the Kaiser. They believe they have devised a turbine of far greater power-producing qualities than the Parsons engine, the largest type now in existence, which has only 1,500 horse-power.

It is stated that the principal advantage possessed by the German turbine is the centralizing of the power in a single impeet, instead of distributing it over a series of turbine blades. The German engineers have also arrived at a method of reversing the ship by means of the turbine machinery. The inability of other turbines to propel a vessel backward has heretofore prevented shipbuilders from employing them in the construction of large boats. If this new experimental cruiser fulfils expectrtions, the Kaiser will adopt turbine propulsion throughout the German fleet.

OGILVIE MILLING COMPANY.

Annual Meeting in Montreal and Election of Officers.

Montreal, Oct. 1.—The annual meeting of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd., was held at the head office of the company here today. The directors' report for the year ending August 31, 1902, showed that the gross business of the company during that period was the largest in the history of the Ogilvies, and that the net results were eminently satisfactory. The report was unanimously adopted.

In commenting upon the report, the Hon. Geo. A. Drummond remarked that the statements submitted were sufficiently clear to intelligent business men to show that the company was in an exceptionally strong position and well managed. Speaking in a reminiscent way, Mr. Drummond stated that he probably happened to be the only person at present connected with the company who could look back to the early days of the Ogilvie flour business, and although it seemed a long way back, yet he remembered when the business was first carried on by the late Hon. A. W. Ogilvie, Mr. John Ogilvie and the late owner, Mr. W. W. Ogilvie. It began in a small way, and was administered by those gentlemen with exceptional prudence and sagacity, and so it had been under the present management, so far as he was able to judge about a business more or less foreign to him. He confidently believed that the company's affairs would be equally as well conducted in the future as they had been in the past. Had he thought otherwise, he should not have become interested in the stock of the company. The company had a brilliant future before it.

Mr. James Crathern, in moving the appointment of Mr. George Creak as auditor of the company for the ensuing year, paid a high tribute to his integrity and ability, having known him for a number of years in connection with various other companies.

Mr. Creak, in accepting the appointment stated that the system adopted by the Ogilvie Four Mills company was not only excellent in all respects, but was carefully and thoroughly carried out, and that he considered it due to the managing director and his staff to express his opinion of the way the business was conducted, and that in fact he knew of no company among the many with which he had been associated, where the system was more complete and more carefully watched in every detail.

Mr. F. W. Thompson in moving a vote of thanks to the officers and staff of the company, which was seconded by Mr. E. S. Clouston, stated that he could not too strongly testify to the loyalty and devotion extended to him by the employees from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and which characterized the business during the life time of his late lamented chief, W. W. Ogilvie.

Colonel Labelle, one of the oldest employees of the company, in acknowledging the vote of thanks on behalf of the staff, said he was very happy to have the privilege of thanking the vice-president for his kind words, and begged to assure the management that the well known loyalty of the employees towards the head of the business existed now as it did in the days of their late employer, Mr. W. W. Ogilvie, and he felt sure that if it only required the close work and attention of the staff to make the business a success, this was assured. The following directors and officers were elected for the ensuing year: Charles R. Hosmer, president; F. W. Thompson, vice-president and managing director; Hon. George A. Drummond, H. Montague Allen and E. S. Clouston, directors; Shirley Ogilvie, secretary; S. A. McMurtry, treasurer; W. A. Black, Western manager.

OLD PLACER MINES.

From Grand Forks News-Gazette.

Henry Ellis has returned from a prospecting trip to the headwaters of the main and west fork of the Kettle river. He reports having found the dwellings of placer miners that must have been abandoned thirty or forty years ago. The cabins have sunk nearly out of sight and the approaches were covered with a dense growth of underbrush. He says his mission was successful. He was accompanied by Sam Jarrell.

UNAVAILING.

It's kind o' hard to understand the case of Ezry Jones,
We thought that he'd grow up to be a reg'lar lazy bones,
But his father felt quite hopeful when he saw him out one day
A-tollin' with a golf stick an' declarin' it was play.
He'd stop and hit that little ball a most tremendous lick,
An' then he'd run up hill an' down, all on the double quick.
To see him so industr'ous done his folks a heap o' good,
It's plain he isn't lazy; but he won't chop wood.

He started in for ping-pong, an' his enterprize was such
The doctor said as how he'd have to quit or use a crutch.
An' as fur pool an' billiards, I have seen him, I declare
A-tollin hard fur hours an' holdin' one foot in the air.
The neighbor, when they used to go a visitin' would brag
About the scientific way he hit the punchin' bag.
But there's jes' one thing about him that we never understood:
He has a heap of muscle, but he won't chop wood.

Demented.—Nelse Christian Nelson, a lunatic, was brought down from Cape Scott on the Queen City, by Peter Gierup, constable at that point. The unfortunate man has caused a great deal of terror and annoyance to the settlers, having developed homicidal mania. Nelson will be examined by Victoria medical men, and if found hopelessly insane, will likely be committed to the New Westminster asylum.

Degree of Honor.—The ladies of Capitol lodge No. 2, Degree of Honor, turned out in full force at the A. O. U. W. hall last night, the occasion being a special meeting called on account of the visit of Mrs. Louise M. Bush, supreme chief of honor of the Degree or Honor, and an organizer of the order. Mrs. Bush addressed the meeting, delivering an interesting address, and after some routine business the meeting adjourned after passing a vote of thanks to the visitor.

Police Court.—On Tuesday James Kelly walked out of the city lock-up, a free man. He had been there serving 10 days for being drunk. He got drunk again and yesterday Magistrate Hall fined him $5 or another 10 days. Eymon Ralson and James Hong for being drunk were fined each $2.50. New Fish Hatchery.—J. P. Babcock, provincial fisheries commissioner, has returned from inspecting the site of the proposed fish hatchery at Lillooet. The Legislature voted $10,000 for the erection of this hatchery at last season, and work will probably be begun upon it before winter sets in. The Department of Lands and Works has prepared plans and specifications, and tenders will shortly be called for. The Lillooet hatchery will have a capacity of 25,000,000 eggs, the largest on this Coast.

The Grand Jury.—The members of the grand jury visited the Provincial Jail and the Reformatory yesterday afternoon, Mr. Boggs, foreman, and his 11 other good men and true examining the intricacies of the common jail, and the Reformatory—or rather side prison—in which the nine boys are imprisoned. There are 38 prisoners under care of Warden John. The jury will probably draw attention in their presentment to the shabby state of the cots in the Provincial Jail, and the cramped and unsatisfactory condition of the Reformatory.

King Dodo's Herald.—E. A. Weil, advance manager of King Dodo, one of Henry W. Savage's Castle Square company's—and by the way—the first to reach the Coast, was in the city yesterday. He says there are 75 people with the company of which he is in front, and not an advertised 75, but actually 75. The amusing comic opera will open in Seattle on Sunday, and after playing for four nights and a matinee, will come to Victoria to play here on Thursday and Friday next. King Dodo, a grotesque part played by Raymond Hitchcock, a good comedian, is by Gustave Luders and Frank Pixley, who was one of George Ade's journalistic friends in Chicago, and like Ade has been successful in comic opera ventures. George Ade, the fables in slang man, has now written a second comic opera "Peggy from Paris," which will be produced in Chicago shortly. The new piece is very different from his Sultan of Sulu, dealing with the American parvenu in Paris.

NINETY MILES AN HOUR

And an Average Speed of Sixty-five Was Made on Canada Atlantic.

From Ottawa Free Press.

As fast a run as has ever been made in Canada was accomplished yesterday (September 17) by the Canada Atlantic railway from Moose Creek to Ottawa.

The disance from Moose Creek to the central sation is 37 miles. Including slow-ups at the diamond and a slow run for the last mile into the station, the 37 miles was covered in exactly 35 minutes, making an average rate of over 60 miles an hour.

The crew of the engine was Engineer Robert Orr and Fireman W. Sawpett, and Conductor Clarke was in charge. The train reached Moose Creek 17 minutes late, this being principally on account of having to meet the other train from Ottawa with the aldermen on board. From Moose Creek to Ottawa there was clear track, and the city was reached five minutes ahead of the scheduled time, this being a gain of 22 minutes in a run of 37 miles.

So even was the roadbed and so easy were the carriages that the passengers did not realize how fast they were going till they looked out of the window where the landscape was tearing past as it is seldom seen to on a railway train. One or two of the miles are said to have been covered in a rate little under 90 miles an hour. Had it not been for the slowing up to come into the city along the canal bank, the run would have been at a rate of over 70 miles an hour. As it was, the rate was over 65 miles an hour.

Mr. Walsh and Mr. Smith, of the Canada Railway, were the officials on board the train.

Colonia's Work Ends Sunday

Cable Steamer Expected to Complete Deep Sea Line at the Week End.

She Was 2,135 Miles From Bamfield Creek on Monday Last.

The cable steamer Colonia, which sailed from Bamfield creek on Wednesday, September 17, to lay the 3,540 miles of cable to Fanning island, will complete her work on Sunday, according to present indications. Advices brought by arrivals from the Bamfield creek station state that the cable steamer had laid 2,135 miles of the cable without a fault, and without stoppage, up to Monday, and had good weather according to flashes of the little light at the cable building, which flashed in the Morse as the operators on the steamer sent the news. The cable engineers are in constant communication with the Colonia. On Saturday last the steamer had put over 1,711 miles of cable, and was then in latitude 27.25 north, longitude 145.24 west. She had thus made 424 miles in the next two days, and with a continuation of good weather and without stoppage for faults, which are not expected to be found, the work will conclude on Sunday and the Colonia, being relieved by the steamer Anglia, which will lay the 175 mile section connecting with Fanning island station, will proceed to Silvertown, where she will load the second stretch of the United States cable to be laid from Honolulu to Guam. The steamer Silvertown is now on her way to San Francisco with the first section for the San Francisco-Honolulu stretch, and the steamer Anglia will lay the Guam-Manila section. She will proceed to the Thames for that cable after laying the line from Fanning Island to Suva, which completes the British Pacific cable.

PASS OF BALMAHA.

In Port From Port Chalmers—Lyderhorn Worrying Underwriters.

The British ship Pass of Balmaha, Scougell, master, 1,460 tons, reached port yesterday morning 72 days from Port Chalmers. The Pass of Balmaha, like her sister ship, the Pass of Brander, which arrived from the Cape in ballast a few days ago, is here for orders. She had an uneventful passage. Moderate winds were encountered from New Zealand and northerly winds blew before the vessel got the southeast trades, and after the vessel left the northeast trades 12 days of calm were experienced. The Pass of Balmaha was towed to port by the Tacoma, which gave another bark, which arrived in ballast, orders to proceed to Portland. The British ship Albania, which came from Hastings mills with lumber for Sheerness, to ship a crew, sailed yesterday. The British ship Lyderhorn, which left Hongkong on July 31 at the same time as the Dynomene, which has been in port a couple of weeks, is beginning to cause worry, as she was known to have been in a heavy typhoon which buffetted the Dynomene two days out from Hongkong. The Lyderhorn is now 63 days out from the Chinese port.

SAILORS DROWNED.

Seamen Lost While Attempting to Desert at Astoria.

While trying to desert from the British ship Austrasia, at Astoria, two members of her crew lost their lives. The men were named Ferguson and Hudson, and were shipped in Portland. Neither of the bodies have been recovered.

The Austrasia is lying in the stream at Astoria, and the men were seen to jump overboard. It was their intention to leave the vessel and swim ashore. A boat was lowered at once to pick up the men. By the time the boat was under way, however, both men had disappeared from sight.

TEES RETURNS.

Brings Salmon Cargo and Many Passengers From the North.

Steamer Tees, Capt. Hughes, returned to port last night about midnight from Naas, Massett and the Skeena river. She brought down a large number of passengers and had a full cargo, comprised of 184 boxes of frozen salmon, 7,923 cases of canned salmon, and a few tons of general merchandise. The following were the passengers by the Tees: G. H. Comere, Thomas Lapstan, John Bixham, E. Bolton, J. Speer, George Teuston, D. Critchley, H. Plows, F. Van Norman, F. Bels, G. W. Brewster, A. P. Coleman, D. Moore, M. Howard, H. Fewster, J. H. Menzies, J. O. McConnell, C. Barrett, Ira McClure, C. Davie, Archie McPhail, J. O'Shea, W. Howden, J. Thompson, F. R. Shanu, W. R. Rudyerd, Louis Rudyerd, R. S. Rice, John Wallace and wife, Mrs. Connell and child, C. R. Draney and wife, Robt. Cunningham, J. O. McLeod, D. McMillan, W. Skilling, wife and child, Miss Connell, W. G. Jameson and wife, Miss Elches, Adjutant J. Smith, H. Morry and wife, Charles Boyster and fwie, J. W McIntosh, Miss M. Elches, E. G. Johnston.

Mr. J. W. McIntosh, one of those interested in the proposed Bulkley Valley settlement, was a passenger. Some months ago Mr. McIntosh was commissioned to explore the route for a road to connect the valley with the coast, and establish a means of transportation to and from the settlement. This he has done, and will report the result of his labors to the government. Mr. McIntosh is one of those who professes great faith in the future of the projected colony. The great obstacle to the success of the venture, he agrees, is insufficient communication with the coast, but feels that this can be overcome by constructing a road at reasonable cost. It is understood that Mr. McIntosh's report will be a favorable one, and some intimation has been given that the road will be built next spring. The passengers also include a large number of miners from the Skeena.

MARINE NOTES.

The bark Vidette arrived at San Francisco a few days ago and reported sighting the steamer Colonia. The San Francisco Examiner, in reporting this event, said the Colonia started from Vancouver, while the Chronicle said the Colonia was from Puget Sound.

Steamer Queen City sailed for the West Coast last night 24 hours after her arrival, with a heavy cargo of freight, including heavy shipments of lumber for Bamfield creek, railway metals for Alberni, and general freight for Cost points.

TRADES AND LABOR.

Regular Monthly Meeting of the Local Labor Parliament.

The regular monthly meeting of Victoria Trades and Labor Council was held last night in Labor hall, the president, Mr. Ed. Bragg, presiding.

The committee on organization reported the formation of the Garment Workers' union, and the perfection of the preliminary steps towards organizing the boilermakers' helpers and the musicians unions.

The committee on Chinese education made a verbal report of progress. The minister of Education, it was reported, has forwarded his decision as to the segregation of Chinese children in the public schools to the Board of Public school trustees, and the matter will likely be brought up at the next meeting of that body.

A communication was received from the Indianapolis Trades and Labor Council regarding the boycotting of the Singer sewing machine, and stating that the strike of that company's employees had not been settled.

The report of the Legislative committee was then taken up, and it was decided to notify the Minister of Labor of the action of this council with regard to the railway bill.

It was resolved to hold a special meeting on the evening of Tuesday, 7th inst., in the big hall, to discuss Mr. J. J. Martin's proposed railway bill. Mr. Martin will be present and will address the meeting.

The organizer was authorized to reconstruct the organizing committee, and choose his own associates in the work. A delegation of ladies of the Garment Workers' union was introduced and welcomed, President Bragg greeting them with his sweetest smile.

SUCCESSFUL CONCERT.

Herr Peje Storck and Mr. Herbert Ritchie Delight a Large Audience.

A goodly audience gathered in Waitt's hall Tuesday night to hear the concert given by Herr Peje Storck and Mr. Ritchie. Mr. Storck's reputation as a pianst was already established in this city, but there was not a little natural curiosity to hear Mr. Ritchie make his debut before a Victoria audience. It is simple justice to say that from the first note of the opening sonata to the last of Mr. Ritchie's selections the audience was filled with delight. It was an admirable performance, and the presence of two such artists in this city is a subject of profound congratulation among all who are interested in music. It is easy, after hearing Mr. Storck in such numbers as he presented last night, to understand the high praise which European critics have bestowed upon him. Whether or not his selections were made with the view of showing the scope of his execution, they certainly gave evidence of diversity. In the piano passages he displayed a rare delicacy of touch, and in those that were to be rendered fortissimo, his tones were almost overpowering in their magnificent strength. Certain critics might object to the latter, for there is a school which sets its face strongly against anything that does not ripple or trill; but the compass of the piano is wide, and a master of the instrument is fully warranted in bringing out everything there is in it. This Mr. Storck undoubtedly does, and with a firmness and clearness of tone that pleases even while it almost oppresses with its grandeur. His strongest passages, equally with his runs and trills, were very cleanly done. His rendering of Emil Sauer's "The Murmurings of the Wind" displayed his skill in one class of work, and some of the passages in Grieg's "Concerto" exhibited his powers in an opposite direction. Mr. Ritchie made a splendid impression. The first thing which his audience noted was the purity and clearness of his tones. This latter was very noticeable in the Sonata for the violin and piano, the latter being played by Mr. Storck, but it was not until he began his solo work that the strength and beauty of his playing became fully manifest. There was never a harsh note and the tones were absolutely true. Yet there was no lack of strength. Perhaps his rendering of Wienowski's "Legende" showed better than anything else how true an artist he is. If ever a story was told on a violin, Mr. Ritchie told one. From the matter-of-fact opening notes to the sad, yet not wholly regretful, strains at the close, the interest was sustained. What Wienowski had in mind when he composed the "Legende" we are not told, but, as Mr. Ritchie renders it, it is a story of suffering, sanctified by love and culminating in a tragedy, which was not altogether mournful. Mr. Ritchie is to be heartily congratulated upon his conception of this exquisite composition. Miss Helen Taylor played in the concerto with Mr. Storck, and also accompanied Mr. Ritchie. She is a very clever and accomplished accompanist, and her work was very highly appreciated. The concert is entitled to a place among the very highest class musical entertainments ever given in Victoria. It will be a fortunate thing for this city if it proves to be possible to retain Messrs. Storck and Ritchie here. Following is the programme:

Sonata for Violin and Piano (f major) ..... Beethoven
Mr. Herbert Ritchie and Herr Peje Storck.
Concerto in minor for piano ..... Greig
Herr Peje Storck.
Fantasia Ecossaise (1st and 2nd movements) ..... Max Bruch
Mr. Herbert Ritchie.
(a) The Murmurings of the Wind.....
..... Emil Sauer
(b) Valse Impromptu (a flat major).. Liszt
Herr Peje Storck.
(a) Legende ..... Wienowski
(b) La Joie ..... Popini
Mr. Herbert Ritchie.
Accompanist, Miss Helen Taylor.

ORGAN RECITAL.

St. Andrews' Presbyterian Church the Scene of an Enjoyable Musicale.

The organ recital at St. Andrews' Presbyterian church last evening was an eminently successful event, whether viewed from the standpoint of the large attendance or the capable manner in which a programme of choice instrumental and vocal numbers was presented by the various talented soloists participating.

Mr. Burnett played a number of exacting solos, his work evidencing marked progress in the ease and finished style with which he disposed of technical difficulties. The "New World Symphony" by Dvorak and Hollins concert overture, were his best contributions among the many musical delights of the evening. Mr. Sidney Talbot played Batiste's grand offertoire (St. Cecilia), the composition affording much scope for varied effects.

Mrs. G. Jennings Burnett sang "Amid the Shadows," an original composition by her talented husband, in a manner showing intimate acquaintance with the demands of the piece. Mrs. Burnett and Miss Laura Loewen were also heard in Mendelssohn's vocal duet, "I Waited For the Lord." Miss Laura Loewen's singing of Mr. Burnett's other original composition in the programme, "Sun of My Soul," was one of the features of the evening. Mr. Herbert Taylor was in his usual fine voice, and his rendering of Siddle's "Abide With Me" was most artistic and impressive, the song calling for lofty interpretative powers.

Mr. Jesse Longfield's rendition of Wicken's violin solo (Reverie in G) was handled with consummate skill and finesse.

Rain or Shine.—The City Band dance scheduled for this evening will take place rain or shine. All who desire to patronize this enjoyable event need experience no uneasiness, as the pavilion is warm and comfortable, no matter what the weather may be. The City Band and Orchestra will be in attendance and a first-class time is assured.

SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

The interview with Alderman Barnard, which we publish this morning, should be read with care by every citizen of Victoria. Of course there are those who will say that the fall rains have settled the question of water supply for some time to come, and that the seasonal discussion of sewers has arrived which will amuse and excite the people for a while until something else occurs to shelve it. Well, those who say that, and who think that nothing will be done are about to receive the surprise of their lives. Something definite must be done, and something definite is going to be done. We begin, so far as we are concerned, with the statement, that this fair city of Victoria is in an insanitary condition. That is a bald statement. It challenges either proof or contradiction. Its proof would be easy, alarmingly easy. But we prefer to believe that the statement will be accepted as one of unquestioned fact. It may be sufficient to indicate two lines along which the proof of this statement could be presented, first, the existence in the city of disease which is preventable, and which may be directly traced to imperfect sanitation, and its periodical outbreak in a more or less epidemic form, and second, the existence of methods of disposing of, or rather of not disposing of sewage which universal experience has condemned. Now this question may just as well be faced now as next year, or the year after. It will not be one whit more easy to solve at a later date than it is today. It may be much more difficult, if public opinion cannot be stirred up before instead of after some calamity overtakes the city. The first and most obvious thing to do is to enforce a proper system of scavenging in those parts of the city not provided with sewerage connection. We do not believe that this can be done by means of an inspector whose business it is to detect and report infringements of the rules and regulations. It never has been done successfully in this way, and the chances are it never will be. The way to do it is to place in the hands of a municipal department the care of the scavenging of the portions of the city not provided with sewer connection, and to make that department responsible for infringements of the law not the individual householder. Let the individual householder do the paying. That is enough responsibility for him. He will soon awake to the necessity of a complete sewerage system, when he finds out how expensive and irksome it is to keep a city in a sanitary condition without it. Our sewerage system is automatic and that is municipal. A proper system of scavenging where there are no sewers requires brains and executive ability to carry it out, and that is not municipal. Is the reason because there is neither intelligence nor executive ability in a municipality? Surely not. Yet why should the sewerage system which is automatic be under municipal control, and the sewerage system which is not automatic, be left to a policy of drift and drip as it is in this city at the present time? We do not propose this system of municipal scavenging as a permanent institution. But it has kept other cities healthy in the absence of sewers, and, if properly carried out, it will keep this city healthy. It would also be a source of revenue to the city. It is frightfully expensive we admit, but not nearly so expensive as disease, with the danger at any time of an epidemic. Its active replacement by the less expensive and more modern sewer would be attended to without any unnecessary delay, either upon the basis advocated by Mr. Barnard or some modification thereof. We cannot afford to rely forever upon our incomparably healthy climate and upon our purifying winds to keep the city free from serious outbreaks of disease. It is better to close the door while the horse is still in the barn.

STATE IRONWORKS.

A most interesting discussion has taken place in the parliament of New South Wales on the advisability of starting State Ironworks in that self-governing portion of the British Empire. So far as the natural resources for the manufacture of iron go, New South Wales is in very much the same position as British Columbia. It possesses the fuel, the flux, and the ore, but they are in an undeveloped condition. The agitation there to induce the state to take hold of the business of manufacturing iron has arisen less from the desire to nationalize this industry than from the desire to secure immediately for New South Wales the benefits which would accrue from it. State ironworks were advocated less to prevent private capital from manufacturing iron, than because private capital would not as yet undertake to do so without heavy assistance from the government. The first thing that strikes us about the debate is that conditions are much more favorable to a state-owned iron industry in New South Wales than they are in British Columbia. There are two reasons for this. The first is that when Messrs. Sandford and Mitchell, whose doings we reported at the time, offered to invest British capital in the manufacture of iron in Australia, the Federal government brought in a bill conferring a bonus of £250,000 upon the industry. The effect of this was nullified, so far as Messrs. Sandford and Mitchell were concerned, by the introduction of a clause limiting this bonus to a state-owned manufactory. By such a strange proposal the Federal parliament may have meant to shelve the whole business. It is not easy for the uneducated outsider to see what else could have been meant. However that might be, it gave New South Wales an opportunity to earn this bonus, and therefore afforded an inducement for the State to go into the business of making iron. In the second place, the governments in Australia are, through their owning the railways, the main consumers of iron, and therefore the product of a state-owned manufactory would have a monopoly of the most influential customer. It is noticeable, however, that there was during the debate grave doubt expressed whether the sister governments of Australia would give the government of New South Wales a monopoly of their iron market if they could buy iron anywhere else cheaper. Judging from what we know of governments in general, we believe this doubt to have been well founded. As against these favorable circumstances the argument was adduced that a government could not manage such a complicated business successfully, and this argument was enforced with some skill and many apt illustrations from the method of managing the state-owned railways in vogue in Australia. Mr. Blair, it seems to us could secure some hints in that country, as to how to prevent an Intercolonial surplus next year. The main argument, however, and the one which will appeal most strongly to British Columbians, not only as in itself reasonable, but as peculiarly applicable to the circumstances of this province, was advanced by Sir John See, the Premier of New South Wales. It was in effect this, that there were plenty of avenues in which every available dollar of public money could be wisely and usefully expended, where no competition was to be feared, without the state interfering in businesses where it would at once meet with either internal or external competition. The proposal was voted down, and the government of New South Wales has been left to devote its funds to other departments of usefulness than the manufacture of iron. Verb. sap.

It appears that neither Mr. Tarte nor Mr. Sifton is going to get out of the Liberal party.

The Canadian Gazette published in London, is making war on the Canadian beggar in England. The Toronto Globe says: "We wish the Gazette all success in its efforts to prevent British charity from flowing towards this country. The current ought to flow in the opposite direction."

The members from the Maritime provinces, it is said, are going to refuse to vote for any Redistribution bill which reduces their representation in the Federal parliament. That will not make very much difference. The political centre of gravity is moving westward and what do the Maritime Provinces propose to do about it?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

POISONING DOGS.

Sir,—In your Daily Colonist I see a notice from Mr. Dallain, the superintendent of the Humane Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, asking for information respecting a young seal belonging, I suppose, to the Beacon Hill Park collection, and with what motive any person or persons could commit such a barbarous act it is had to conceive. In fact, it seems to me like the work of an insane person. There is also a notice about the poisoning of a valuable dog, the occurence of which has been frequent of late, and is a most cowardly and despicable action. Probably the perpetrators of such cases are unaware of the penalties attached to such acts, but if detected they may find out that the law is most severe in such cases. As a rule, animals are poisoned or otherwise injured not so much for themselves as for personal spite against their owners. Now, I am going to relate what happened in a case of my own to dogs owned by me. At the time I am writing of I then resided in the State or Oregon, in the United States, in a little town called Shedd, about 90 miles from the city of Portland. I then kept a pair of valuable fox terriers. My house was situated near that of a very wealthy and miserly man, by the name of John Shotboit, and a man who was a dog-hater, but he and I, as neighbors, were nevertheless on friendly terms, and we used to see quite a deal of each other. In his garden there was erected a large and high windmill for the purpose of pumping water, just such a mill as you can see on Mr. Shotboit's residence, and I had been in the habit of oiling this windmill for him about every two weeks, to prevent it from squeaking, and as it was a little too near heaven for Mr. Baker to climb, and I had followed a seafaring life for fifteen years, the task was easy enough for me, and I performed it for him for some months. Well, things do not always run evenly in this world, and I heard that Mr. Baker's tongue had been inclined a little the wrong way towards myself, and the next time he asked me to oil the windmill I refused and we were not upon speaking terms any more. About a month after this incident I went to my backyard to feed some pigeons I then kept, and I saw a small puppy (the last of a litter I had left) run howling through the garden, and fell dead in a ditch. I went to this spot and saw the effects of poison. The mother of this puppy was lying near the well curb trembling violently, her eyes protruding from the sockets. I lifted her up and carried her into my woodshed, where she died shortly after; two dead in about fifteen minutes. The male fox terrier was lying on my front porch, and I looked at him and he seemed all right, but to make sure, I went to a drug store near by and procured an antidote for poison, and hastened home, finding my dog in a very bad way, with convulsions, which always occur in cases of strychnine poisoning. A neighbor passing by helped me to administer an antidote, but it was of no avail, as he died in great agony in a few minutes. No person who ever saw a pet of his die such a death as this would ever wish to see such a sight as this again. To continue my story, I conferred with several of my neighbors, and I found evidence enough against Mr. Baker to warrant me in taking proceedings against him for the killing of my dogs, and I sued him for the sum of $100 (civil suit) and if I could have proved that he placed the poison on my premises it would have implied a criminal charge, prosecuted by the State of Oregon. The case came before a justice of the peace in Albany, the county seat of Linn county. In the answer to the complaint Mr. Baker denied everything, even the knowledge of my possessing any dogs at all, but on the witness stand he contradicted himself by swearing that he saw the dogs in a neighboring field on the day of the poisoning. This meant almost a case of perjury, according to the laws of the United States, but the case was clearly proved against him, although he produced fourteen witnesses, while I only subpoened three, but I received judgment for $55 and costs. But he was not satisfied with this verdict, and through his attorney gave notice of an appeal to the Superior Court, the trial to take place two months later, and when it came to trial again the Superior Court held to the decision of the lower court, and with the additional costs, the whole sum amounted to $250. I received considerable praise in the columns of the Oregon newspapers for the action I had taken, as recently a similar case in Portland had been declared against the owner of a dog, the presiding judge, Paul R. Deady, declaring a dog was untaxable property. It was from no pecuniary view that I brought the matter into court, but merely to protect this truest friend of man. Any person who would maliciously poison any dumb brute is totally unfit to associate with his fellow men. Mr. Dallain's work in this city should receive the greatest praise from all. Hoping I am not taking up too much space in your columns,

Sir,—In your issue of September 19th, you refer to me as architect for the Pacific cable station buildings. Will you correct this unfortunate error and state that the entire credit for these much admired buildings is entirely due to Mr. F. M. Rattenbury, of Victoria, architect and oblige.

VANCOUVER'S VOYAGES.

Sir,—The following extract taken from the Annual Register for 1795, one of the volumes lately added to our Provincial Library by Mr. Schofield, the librarian, will probably be of interest to readers of the Colonist:

24th September, 1795. The Discovery sloop of war, Captain Vancouver, arrived at Limerick on the 13th inst., in company with the homeward bound East India fleet, having completely effected the object of her expedition and made some important discoveries on the north west coast of America. She sailed from England on the 1st April, 1791, with 160 men on board, and such was the attention of the officers to their health that only one man died in the course of a very fatiguing voyage of upwards of four years. They speak in the highest terms of the inhabitants of the Sandwich Islands, from whom they experienced every possible civility and attention. Lord Camelford, after he left the Discovery in the South Seas, on his return to Europe, fell in with the Resistance of 44 guns, Captain Palenham, and immediately entered on board her, where his lordship was serving as a lieutenant when the last we left that ship, and paid strict attention to his professional duties."

The above reference to Lord Camelford is interesting, as there is no previous record in Captain Vancouver's Journal of his presence on the Discovery. There were six midshipmen on the ship, the names of which are not given in the record of the voyage, but I have been able to gather that Sykes, afterwards Admiral Sykes, living in 1848, was the name of one of them, Le Mesurier and Sheriff that of two others. Probably Lord Camelford was one of the remaining three midshipmen, and on succeeding to the title was sent home. Lord Camelford, a few years afterwards, 1798, when acting captain of the Favorite sloop of war, and when lying in the harbor of Antigua, gained a most unenviable notoriety in the British Navy, by shooting dead on the spot Lieutenant Peterson, first lieutenant of His Majesty's ship Perdrix, for disobedience of orders. Lord Camelford was subsequently acquitted by courtmartial, but the British public long looked on his hasty action with abhorrence. (Vide Brenton's Naval History, vol. 1, page 431.

Stricken With Paralysis

Could Scarcely Walk and Was Given Up by Doctors—An Extraordinary Case—Now Believes His Life Was Saved by

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Mr. James A. Deal, a respected resident of Bridgewater, N. S., writes: "About a year ago I suffered a stroke of paralysis, which left me in a very bad state of health. To add to my troubles, last winter I took la grippe, which completely exhausted my nervous system. I could scarcely walk or talk, my legs and arms were partially paralyzed, my blood did not circulate properly, and I could not do any work. In fact, I was so bad that the doctors gave me up and thought I could not live through the summer.

"I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and persevered in the treatment, until now I am at work again. The change in my condition has been most remarkable. It is a surprise to everyone to know that I am able to be around again. My nervous system has been built up wonderfully by this remedy. I am able to rest well, my circulation is normal, and by general health good. My appetite is first-class, and I have gained considerably in flesh.

"The results I have obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food have been most gratifying, and I have no hesitation in stating that I believe I owe my life to this preparation. I am willing that you publish this letter, with the hope that it may be the means of helping others to regain their health."

The Womans' Auxiliary

First Meeting of the New Working Year—The Business Discussed.

Date Fixed For Hospital Ball Is First Thursday in November.

The first regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary Society for its new working year was held on Tuesday at the City hall. Present were the president, vice-president, the members of the society and the assistant secretary-treasurer.

The meeting opened with prayer, after which the minutes of the annual meeting and of the preceding meeting of the executive for the election of officers, were read and adopted.

The president reported to the meeting the resignation of Mrs. C. S. Baxter from the secretaryship. Mrs. Baxter had asked her to state that this resignation was prompted by circumstances of a purely personal nature, and over which she had no control, and she further begged that any erroneous report circulated upon this head be contradicted with authority.

A report of the affairs of the society during the vacation months was next called for, and furnished as follows:

Madame President and Ladies:

Owing to the resignation of the secretary, I have been instructed by the president to prepare a report, and to present the treasurer's statement to this meeting.

The garden party accounts are on the table, and I have great pleasure in stating that you have thereby cleared your indebtedness to Mr. A. E. Todd for his most kindly loan.

The total receipts taken at the fete amounted to $357.84. The expenditure amounted to $74.23. This, together with the sum of $75 paid for the music and attractions furnished in the evening by Mr. Finn and the band of the Fifth Regiment, leaves a net profit of $208.61, sufficient to repay the loan and give a balance of $8.61.

Thanks are due to Mr. Rausche and the members of the City band for a concert during the afternoon; to the Tourist Association, to the Messrs. Douglas, to Col. and Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Henry Croft, Mrs. Rocke Robertson, the Bishop of Columbia and Miss Perrin, the Misses Dunsmuir, Mrs. Heisterman and Mrs. E. B. Marvin, for cash donations; to Mrs. A. W. Jones, Mrs. Gerhard Clarke, Mr. C. A. Bury, Miss Walker and Mrs. Wolfenden; and, among the Daughters of Pity, to the Misses Potts, Wadman, Hiscocks, Chambers, Bechtel, Worlock, Ackman, Austin, Wollaston, Woodward, Becker, Sorel and Boulton, for help and assistance at the various booths; to Mrs. A. W. Jones, for dressing a doll, and to Mrs. Tilton, for paper work. The tea was superintended by members of the Woman's Auxiliary, and was lavishly contributed. Thanks are due to Mesdames Henry Clay, M. R. Smith, Davis and Schilling, and to Messrs. Weiler, Waitt, Francis, Erskine, Wall, Speed, Fell, Jamison, Dixi Ross, Simmons and Coker, F. R. Stewart, Rogers, Thorpe and Morley; Leiser and Rithet, for loans and donations; to the City, for the loan of decorations; to the Invertavish nursery, for the loan of plants, and to Mr. Cockerell, for assistance in decorating the flower booth.

Though this entertainment achieved, financially, the object for which it was given, both the expenses and other difficulties become greater in holding it away from the hospital grounds; besides the fact that it thus loses all its local interest, and causes great disappointment to the inmates of the hospital. I venture to express a hope, based upon active, working experience, that the hospital grounds will be the scene of all such future entertainments.

I have received from Mr. S. D. Schultz a check for $74.70, donated to your working fund, as the result of the baseball played between the Victorias and Amities last month; and a bill for $5 from the Pollard Lilliputian Opera Co., towards your fund for the children's ward.

Copies of the report recently issued by this society have been duly mailed to each member whose name is on the list, either of the last two years, to the clergy, to the president and board of directors, to the president and members of the Daughters of Pity, and to every individual who has made special donations—through this society—either in kind or money. During the vacation the matron reported that she had pressing need of sheeting, and of earthenware for the male wards. With the sanction of the president, the matron and myself (as in former vacation months) made the necessary purchase. The matron further reports that the last purchase of men's nightshirts—ready-made—are not satisfactory, and that those made by the ladies, or at the hospital, outwear these by many months.

If any ladies, or sewing societies, would undertake the children's nightdresses, it will be of very great assistance.

Respectfully submitted.

B. M. HASELL.

The meeting accepted and adopted this report, and passed the accounts, expressing pleasure at the general results.

The vacant secretaryship was next discussed, with the result that Mrs. Hasell was unanimously requested to take it for one more year, the society trying to secure the services of an assistant secretary by the next meeting, who would take up the work with Mrs. Hasell, and feel prepared to continue it as secretary for a future term.

A letter was had from Miss Amy Angus, stating that the Daughters of Pity have undertaken to provide luncheon and tea at the exhibition grounds on Friday and Saturday in next week, and asking the assistance of such of the auxiliary as feel inclined to give service, cakes, salads, potatoes, pickles, fruit, or any other small home-made contributions. It was explained that the society hope to conduct the main part of the undertaking in a business manner, purchasing the principal necessaries. They only ask for such additions as any of their friends among the housewives of Victoria can easily supply from their gardens or kitchens, at a nominal cost, and which will assist in making the meals provided dainty and attractive. In this undertaking the Daughters of Pity are actuated primarily by a desire to serve the public, which so generously and perpetually supports and assists them in their charitable work; and the hope for a small profit towards that work is second to their wish to give good and appreciable value and service, on the occasion.

The date for the annual hospital ball was fixed for Tuesday, November 6, with the usual children's Cinderella on the following night.

This date is chosen as being the one nearest His Majesty's birthday, and since there has been no coronation ball, it is hoped that the whole public will regard this entertainment as something of a special celebration, and patronize it accordingly.

It was further decided that it should be called a Watteau ball—which admits all the advantages of calico and flower dresses, with the addition of powder—and the many varieties of pastoral costume; and also for gentlemen, uniform or Windsor uniform, where fancy dress is inconvenient. The decorations will be carried out in keeping with this idea, and further particulars will be published shortly. Committees were appointed as follows: Visiting, Mrs. Rocke Robertson, Mrs. A. Griffith; purchasing, Mrs. Goodacre, Mrs. Stadthagen.

The meeting then adjourned until Tuesday, October 28.

Pot Hunter Fined $50 For Killing Hen Pheasants.

John Hulbert was out shooting last Monday and had the misfortune to meet Special Constable Russell, of the Provincial Police on Mount Tolmie road. The constable examined nimrod's bag and found a couple of plump hen pheasants.

The birds were confiscated and Hulbert was summoned to appear before the Police Magistrate to answer to the double charge of having hen pheasants in his possession, and of shooting out of season. His trial took place yesterday and resulted in a fine of $50, which he paid.

FIREMEN'S BALL.

Elaborate Preparations Being Made For the Event.

The firemen were busy yesterday decorating the balcony of the Market building for their first annual ball which is fixed for the evening of October 9. The floor space of the balcony is ample to accommodate four or five hundred couples and judging by the demand for tickets it will be well filled. The Fifth Regiment band will furnish the music and preparations are being made for a very appetizing supper which should complete the enjoyment of the evening.

The ball is given in honor of the Northwestern Fire Chiefs, who will hold their annual convention here on October 7 and following days.

It is not to be expected that under ordinary conditions a slump in "Grapes" should arise, but there being several consignments by the Puebla yesterday morning, it fell to the lot of Erskine, Wall & Co., to make the sacrifice. This they have done by selling them at 30c. per basket, and the sale has been enormous, too, and they expect to clean up the entire lot on Saturday.

Several horses were received at the exhibition grounds on Tuesday and four more arrived from the Mainland last night.

A large force of men is at work in the buildings and on the grounds erecting stands for exhibits and making repairs.

Good Times In Boundary

Work Resumed on the Sunset --To Build Second Furnace.

B. C. Mine Shipping Regularly to Boundary Falls Smelter.

The Montreal & Boston Copper company's Sunset mine, at which work was resumed recently, after the temporary shut-down caused by the recent shortage in the coke supply stopping smelting operations, is again shipping ore to the company's smelter at Boundary Falls. A sufficient output of ore is being maintained to supply the requirements of the smelter above its receipts of custom ores, and at the same time an active policy of further development is being instituted at the mine. Before sinking the main shaft deeper and doing other development work, however, the diamond drill will be used freely on the lower levels, drilling both downwards and laterally, so as to locate the ore bodies and assist in determining where sinking or crosscutting may be done to best advantage. A second furnace is to be put in at the company's smelter, so as to increase its capacity and enable it to treat larger quantities of both Sunset and custom ores.

The Greenwood smelter, now in full blast, is reported to be doing excellent work again, putting through a high daily average quantity, of ore which is of a generally better quality than that received from the Mother Lode mine before its ore quarries were so well opened up as they now are. Earlier a larger proportion of surface rock had to be sent down to get it out of the way, but now that the workings are well into the solid rock a marked improvement in average grade of ore is reported.

WORK ON THE B. C.

A despatch from Eholt says: This month has been a decided improvement in general business in Eholt. The resumption of work at the B. C. mine, situate about a mile and a half from the town, is chiefly responsible for this gratifying change for the better.

About 70 men are now employed at the B. C., which is shipping an average of 130 to 140 tons of ore a day to the Boundary Falls smelter. This ore is being mined in the old workings. A prospect shaft is being sunk on the south end of the B. C. claim. This is now down about 50 feet and some good ore has been met with in it, but little is being said about it, the object being to avoid rising hopes that may not be realized should the ore shoot not prove permanent. The prospects are favorable for its doing so, however.

The Emma continues to ship ore on a small scale of the Hall Mines smelter at Nelson, giving employment to seven or eight men in mining it.

The Jewel is still shut down, but it is hoped that the arrangements for again shipping ore reported to have been mentioned in Vancouver by W. Work Slater, a director of the Jewel company, to the effect that he hoped a contract would soon be closed for shipping from 20,000 to 30,000 tons, will shortly be made and men put to work in the mine once more. The Jewel is too good a property, from a district point of view, to be allowed to remain unworked. When a mine is known to have a large body of ore that can easily be mined and treated at a profit, those interested in the general welfare of the district feel much regret at seeing it closed down for any considerable length of time.

TO DEVELOP TESLIN.

Prospectors Crossing the Divide in Large Numbers.

"The Teslin Lake country, at the head of the Hootalinqua river, is being invaded by 100 to 150 prospectors," says the Dawson News. "The men have been going into the country the last three or four weeks. They ascend the Hootalinqua from the Yukon to Mason's Landing on the steamer Bailey, which serves the Big Salmon district, and pole the remainder of the distance, 150 miles, in small boats.

"The news of the invasion of the Teslin country is brought by La Bruere Pacaud, mining recorder at the mouth of the Hootalinqua, who was in Dawson on a visit of a few days. He said: 'I do not know that any good diggings have been struck in the Teslin country, but the fact remains there is a good movement of men into the country. Prospectors are understood to have found gold on the Nisultin river, but I cannot say that the find there has caused the movement into the country. The Nisultin flows into Kalke Teslin from the north. No great excitement has occurred the last year in the mining country around the Hootalinqua post, but quartz has received much attention this year. Thirty quartz claims have been located since summer. A discovery was made on Bear creek, 75 miles up the Hootalinqua from the mouth, a year ago, and the creek has been showing good prospects. The Big Salmon country has not many new locations to its record this year, but nearly all ground on Cottoneva and Livingstone is being held. Whatever has lapsed on those streams has been re-located.'"

LE ROI'S RESOURCES.

Immense Bodies of Ore From $7 to $20 Per Ton.

Antoine Sorenson, formerly connected with the Le Roi mine, is helping to spread Rossland's reputation abroad. While in Spokane a day or two ago Mr. Sorenson discussed the situation as follows:

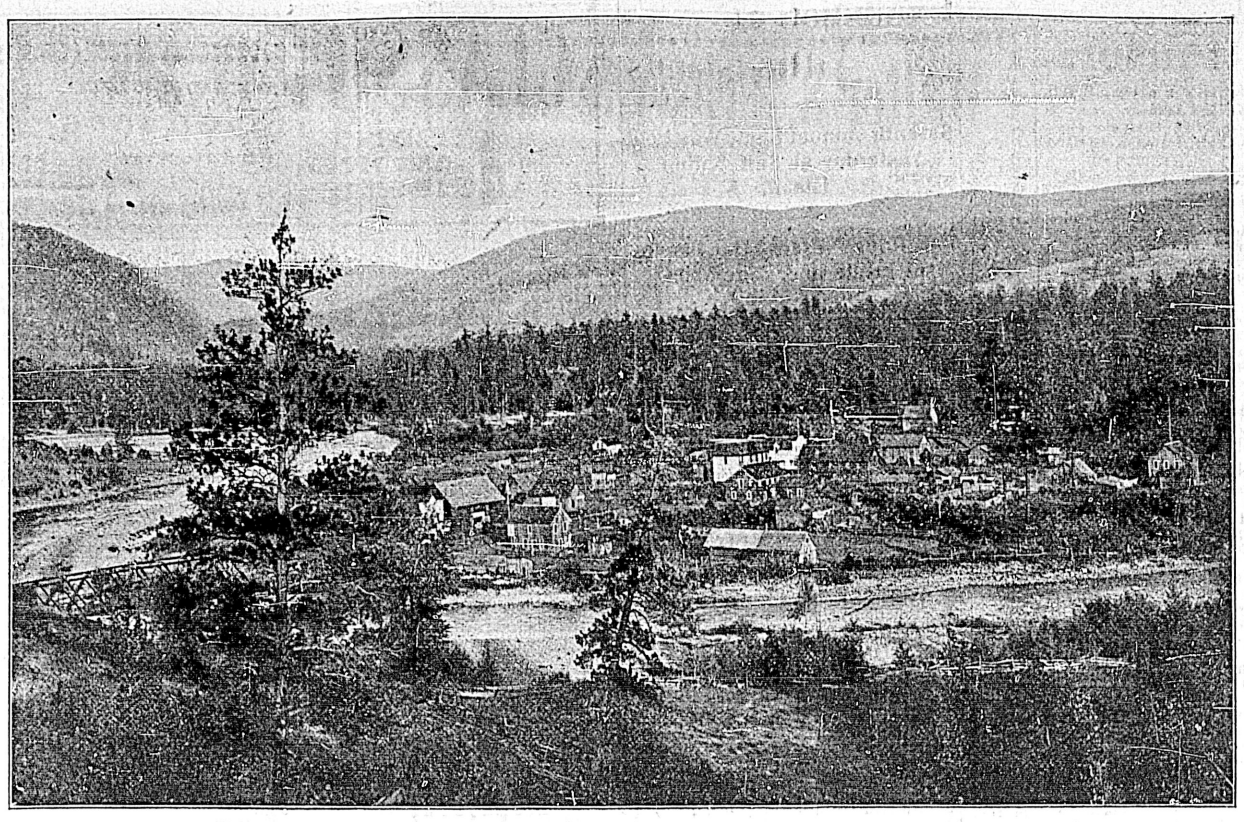

"There is an enormous tonnage of ore through the mine that will run from $7 to $8," said Mr. Sorenson. "The volume of it runs away up into the hundreds of thousands, if not millions of tons. The cost of stoping it would be perhaps $2.50 a ton. If the Elmore process is a success the ore could be reduced 20 into 1 before being smelted, with a loss of perhaps 10 per cent. of its values in the process. After deducting the cost of mining there would be a margin of over $5 a ton on $7.50 ore from which to pay the costs of concentration, transportation and smelting. There would be a good margin in that, and the camp should take great strides forward if the process proves profitable.

"There are some stopes of good ore left in the property. On the 900-foot level there is a stope 100 feet wide by 260 feet long going $20. To the west of that, in the Tregear stope, there is a shoot eight feet wide by 30 feet long running $15. On the 1,050 foot level, at the east side, there is a shoot eight feet wide and 40 feet long running $15. On the 1,200 foot level there was practically nothing when I left six weeks ago. About 500 feet of work altogether had been done, and the vein was being opened up, but the ore was not there."

Incidentally it may be stated that the Le Roi is not dependant solely upon the success of the Elmore process as applied to its ores to enlarge its potentialities. Other processes of concentration, together with reductions in cost of treatment, are regarded as equally important factors in the future of the mine, and the same may be said of other Rossland mines almost without distinction.

A FAMILY NECESSITY.

"Owing to artificial modern life, almost everybody suffers more or less from constipation, torpid liver and sluggish kidneys and as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the most prompt and thorough cure for this derangement, they have come to be considered a family necessity. Hosts of families would not think of being without them. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

The Strike On The Comstock

Another Large Body of Ore Struck on Yreka Company's Property.

N. S. Clarke Tells What Is Being Done at Quatsino Sound.

N. S. Clarke, superintendent of the Yreka Copper Company, who came down on the steamer Queen City from Quatsino Sound, reports great activity on the company's property known as the Comstock group. As noted in yesterday's Colonist, an important strike has been made on the N. S. Fraction, which lies at the west end of the group. Mr. Clarke gives the following particulars of this latest discovery: While the surveyors who are verifying the boundaries of the claims were traversing the N. S. Fraction, they came upon an exposure of rock which seemed highly mineralized. Investigation showed that this was a body of copper-bearing ore, which stripping proved to be of large extent. It is, so far as uncovered, 30 feet wide and 300 feet in length, and as yet no walls have been reached. This surface ore will average six to seven per cent. in copper, with considerable values in gold and silver, and is so situated that it can be quarried at little cost.

The company has now 12,000 tons of ore on the dump from the open cuts and strippings, no sinking or tunnelling having been found necessary, and about 100 tons aday are being added to the pile.

The aerial tramway and compressors will be in working order by December 1, according to present calculations, and the company will then be enabled to make regular shipments to the smelter.

The ore bins are completed. The lower one has a capacity of 2,500 tons and the upper one 300 tons. The wharf is also nearly completed, and work is progressing on a 1,400-foot flume, which will furnish water to drive the big Pelton water wheel, which will supply power to the compressor. The company is employing 55 men at present, but this force will be materially increased when all the machinery is installed.

THE EDISON.

A Tacoma company, of which D. D. Calkins is manager, has organized for the purpose of developing the Edison group, which lies to the west of the Comstock. Mr. Calkins has been examining the property and found some good showings of ore. He came down on the Queen City to purchase supplies, etc., and hopes to have a force of men at work on the property by November.

CANADA AND BERMUDA.

Samuel D. Robinson Says He Prefers to Deal With Us.

From Toronto World.

Samuel D. Robinson, his son Charles, and Clarence Dariell, merchants of Hamilton, Bermuda, are at the Walker House. They are making a tour of Canada, combining business with pleasure, and will later visit New York. To a reporter Mr. Robinson, who carries on a wholesale and retail business in groceries, oilmen's stores, grain, hay and coal, and also owns a large bakery in Hamilton, said that trade between Canada and Bermuda was steadily increasing. At present, as had been the case for a long time past, the United States controlled the larger share of the islands trade, but he was pleased to say that Canadians were now taking advantage of the opportunities which they had so long neglected, with gratifying results. In this connection he paid a high tribute to the Pickford & Black Steamship Company. "The population of Bermuda," said he, "is only 22,000, but we import a great quantity of manufactured material, and there is no good reason why your manufacturers and merchants should not win the market. Our principal exports are onions, potatoes and lily bulbs. That does not sound very imposing, but the trade is quite large, mostly with the United States, though our export of bulbs to England is increasing. The island is very prosperous, and in spite of the close trade relations with the United States, the people are intensely loyal. We are proud of our connection with the Empire; one never hears in Bermuda any expression in favor of annexation to the United States. I do not think that any inhabitant ever thinks of that. This feeling is strongly reflected in the desire of our people to trade with Canadians, and I cannot too strongly impress the fact that we prefer to do business with the Dominion rather than with the United States."

Bermudans, he said, sympathized with the people of the British West Indies in the unfortunate straits in which the latter found themselves owing to the state of the sugar market. There had been talk in the Indies of annexation to the United States, but it was "a case of a drowning man grasping at any straw." His people were glad to know that of late British West Indies had talked of annexation to Canada, because they were so loyal themselves that they would not like to see any part of the Empire attached to any other nation.

WHY PEARY FAILED.

Captain Bernier's Views on Travel in the Arctic.

From Toronto World.

Capt. J. E. Bernier, of Quebec, the fearless navigator who proposes to secure for Canada the honor of supplying the expedition that will discover the North Pole, is in Toronto. He is actively preparing to get his expedition away, and from Ontario he will be accompanied by three citizens. The captain talks entertainingly of Peary's experience and the statement of the Arctic explorer who has just returned from the Far North. He does not think, however, that the pole will ever be reached overland, but, in fact, only by the method he has selected—"Nature's," as he calls it; in other words, Capt. Bernier asserts that the ship that reaches the coveted point will drift through the sea to the immediate locality of the pole. In fact, he thinks this is the real lesson taught by the recent experience of Peary.

"Peary says it is merely a question of financial support, and that if he were a man of unlimited means he could easily reach the pole. This, to my mind, is not a consistent statement. In fact the Baldwin and Zeigler expeditions had unlimited wealth at their command, and could not accomplish what Peary says is easy with plenty of funds. The chief point of interest to the world and to science in Peary's discoveries centre around the revelation that Greenland is an island. Of course, navigators had previously, by soundings, concluded that Greenland was an island, but the question was problematical until Peary's return. This very fact clearly indicates that the pole will not therefore be reached overland.

"Peary insists that if he had wintered at Cape Hecla instead of Fort Conger, he would have reached the pole. Conger is but 100 miles south of Hecla, while Hecla is 480 miles from the pole; but in my opinion it would have been impossible absolutely for the daring fellow to have gone further north than he did, no matter where he wintered. Peary could not have surmounted the ice he mentions as being to the north of him.

"Peary said this snow was of such a fine character that it would not support the weight of a man. If this is the case, how can he or other explorers hope to reach the pole in that manner? As to the discovery of Greenland's limit, Markham in 1876 took soundings that were practically convincing on this point. He will probably make another effort along these lines, but all must end in the same unsatisfactory manner, for the currents alone will carry human beings to the pole. The limit of human endurance is easily reached when one is cut off from his base of supplies, as was Peary, but where it is possible to stick to the ship, as in drifting across the polar seas, the problem is much less difficult.

"Peary has demonstrated beyond question that a sea of drift ice surrounds the pole, and this makes my expedition hopeful of accomplishing what others have so long failed to do. I have studied these conditions for twenty-four years, and during that time I have visited as a ship commander nearly every large port in the world; so, with the financial aid Canada is now giving me, I hope next year or a year later to start on the trip that will give to Canadians the honor of discovering the pole."

WEEKLY WEATHER SYNOPSIS.

Victoria Meteorological Office, 24th to 30th September, 1902.

The week commenced on the 24th with a falling barometer over the Pacific Slope, and a marked depression developing on the upper part of the province, and rain falling at all stations north of the Columbia river. This disturbance passed rapidly to the eastward through the Territories, and was followed on the 25th by a brief interval in this district of fairer weather, which, however, was forced to give way before the advance of another ocean storm area of great energy, which developed on the Upper Mainland coast on Friday, the barometer at Port Simpson falling to 29.32 inches, the high area at the same time sinking to the southeast over Oregon and Idaho. These conditions caused heavy rainfall in British Columbia, especially on the Lower Mainland, where nearly three inches fell in 36 hours. Strong winds also prevailed on the Sound and on the Washington coast. The storm quickly traversed the province and centered in Alberta, the pressure again increasing on the American coast. During the next three days of the week the barometer was rising over the Pacific States, though rather irregular and unsettled over the larger portion of British Columbia, causing rainfall in Cassiar and the Thompson River valley, and snow at Barkerville in Cariboo. The week finally ended with an abnormally high barometer covering the North Pacific Slope, and fine weather at almost all points west of the Rockies. Temperatures have been mostly normal and seasonable though ranging at times considerably higher in Lower California. Frosts have not been frequent except in Cariboo and the higher American plateau lands.

In the Northwest the weather on the whole has been generally fair. Moderate rain has fallen and temperatures have been about normal, with light to sharp frosts at night.

At Victoria 37 hours and 48 minutes of bright sunshine were recorded; the highest temperature was 59.6 on 26th; and the lowest 38.7 on 28th; rainfall 1.54 inches.

At New Westminster, highest temperature 60 on 30th; lowest 38 on 30th; rainfall 3.68 inches.

At Kamloops, highest temperature 58 on 25th, 28th and 30th; lowest, 40 on 28th and 30th; rainfall, .60 inch.

At Barkerville, highest temperature, 44 on 27th and 30th; lowest, 26 on 25th; total precipitation, 1.22 inches, including three inches of snow.

FOR ELECTRIC SHOCK.

Treatment Recommended by an Expert—Instant Action Necessary.

The Electrical World and Engineer is the authority for the statement that accidental electric shocks seldom result in death unless the victim is left unaided too long, or efforts at resuscitation are stopped too early, as in the majority or istances the shock is sufficient only to suspend animation temporarily, owing to the momentary and imperfect contact of the conductors, and also on account of the resistance of the body submitted to the action of the current. The rules given to be observed and promptly executed with care and deliberation are as follows:

Rule 1—Remove the body at once from the circuit by breaking contact with the conductors. This may be accomplished by using a dry stick of wood, which is a non-conductor, to roll the body over to one side, or to brush aside a wire, if that is conveying the current. When a stick is not at hand, any dry piece of clothing may be utilized to protect the hand in seizing the body of the victim, unless rubber gloves are convenient. If the body is in contact with the earth, the coat tails of the victim, or any loose or detached piece of clothing, may be seized with impunity to draw it away from the conductor. When this has been accomplished, observe rule 2. The object to be attained is to make the subject breathe, and if this can be accomplished and continued, he can be saved.

Rule 2—Turn the body upon the back, loosen the collar and clothing about the neck, roll up a coat and place it under the shoulders so as to throw the head back, and then make efforts to establish respiration (in other words, make him breathe), just as would be done in case of drowning. To accomplish this, kneel at the subject's head, facing him, and, seizing both arms, draw them forcibly to their full length over the head, so as to bring them almost together above it, and hold them there for two or three seconds only. (This is to expand the chest and favor the entrance of air into the lungs.) Then carry the arms down to the sides and front of the chest, firmly compressing the chest walls, and expel the air from the lungs. Repeat this manoeuvre at least sixteen times per minute. These efforts should be continued unremittingly for at least an hour, or until natural respiration is established.

Rule 3—At the same time that this is being done, someone should grasp the tongue of the subject with a handkerchief or piece of cloth, to prevent it slipping, and draw it forcibly out when the arms are extended above the head, and allow it to recede when the chest is compressed. This manoeuvre should likewise be repeated at least sixteen times per minute. This serves the double purpose of freeing the throat so as to permit air to enter the lungs, and also, by exciting a reflex irritation from forcible contact of the under part of the tongue against the lower teeth, frequently stimulates an involuntary effort at respiration. To secure the tongue if the teeth are clenched, force the jaws apart with a stick, a piece of wood, or the handle of a pocket-knife.

Rule 4—The dashing of cold water into the face will sometimes produce a gasp and start breathing, which should then be continued as directed above. If this is not successful, the spine may be rubbed vigorously with a piece of ice. Alternate applications of heat and cold over the region of the heart will accomplish the same object in some instances. It is both useless and unwise to attempt to administer stimulants to the victim in the usual manner, by pouring it down his throat.

SIR ROBERT BOND.

The Sydney (N. S.) Record of September 16 has the following to say regarding Sir Robert Bond's trip to Washington:

That Sir Robert Bond, in his mission to Washington, should have the sympathy and goodwill of the great majority of the people of Newfoundland, it would be only natural to suppose. Yet such does not appear to be the case. Not only are the political opponents of his government hostile to the move, but even the independents have adopted a critical and none too friendly view. Take, for instance, the attitude of the Western Star, of Bay of Islands, a journal which is not usually found adverse to the colonial administration. Commenting on Premier Bond's trip to Washington, the Star says:

"We knew very well he was doing a wrong thing when he started out on the treaty-making business, and knowing this, we deemed it our duty to bring him back from error to his wonted rectitude. It would appear now that his (the Premier's) visit to Washington is not under the most favorable auspices. We have already pointed out that it is not the wish of either England or Canada that this Bond-Blaine treaty should be further discussed, and now we will proceed to show that there is no assurance of the matter being acceptable to the United States.

"To begin with, the United States government knows nothing about Sir Robert's mission to Washington. That is to say, the state department has not been notified by the British Embassy that Sir Robert is at Washington to negotiate a reciprocity convention. A well-informed Washington correspondent says: 'The administration would be surprised if Sir Robert Bond should actually appear just at this time, when so many officials are away, and when binding agreements could hardly be expected between the United States and a British colony. It is the general impression, however, that since congress has failed to ratify any recent reciprocity conventions, the chances of making any arrangement with Newfoundland which would be more beneficial to the United States than the existing modus vivendi are remote.' So Sir Robert should see the wisdom of falling into line with popular sentiment and make haste to come home."

For our own part, it strikes us that Sir Robert Bond's visit to Washington has been taken much too seriously by some of our Dominion contemporaries. Very little is likely to result as a consequence of that visit. As the Western Star points out, not only is the Bond-Blaine arrangement repugnant to Canada and Britain, but there is no assurance of the matter being acceptable to the United States. We might go further and say that it is not likely to be regarded with any great enthusiasm by the people of Newfoundland.

A CHEAP GUY.

The country paper he'd not have,
He said it came too high;
He'd take come eastern weekly that
A dollar bill would buy.
Those eastern sheets, he said, contained
A vast amount of stuff;
While country weeklies were too full
Of local news and guff.
The first thing that this sucker struck
When his good thing begun,
Was a receipt for raising beets
Which cost him plunket one.
The terse reply that he received:
"Take hold the tops and yank!"
Just simply made him send again,
And five cold dollars plank,
For "twelve good things of household use,"
The advertisement said;
And then came back twelve needles small,
And not a bit of thread.
He sent four-bits in two-cent stamps
Just quicker than a wink
When first he read how he could write
Without a pen or ink.
They sent him back a letter brief,
And this is all it said:
"Go get a pencil at the store
And sharpen up the lead."
It cost him coin for a receipt
That promised to make plain,
The scheme of living without work
And making lots of gain.
The answer on a post hole card
Did these few words convey;
"Go fish for suckers as we do,
And advertise, you jay!"

Exhibition at The Islands

Seventh Annual Show Was Held Yesterday at Salt Spring Island.

Col. Prior Present--The Display of Fruits and Vegetables Most Notable.

Splendid weather favored the seventh annual exhibition of the Islands' Agricultural and Fruit Growers' Association, at Ganges Harbor, Salt Spring Island, yesterday. A special excursion had been arranged from Victoria and a considerable number went up from the Capital City. The steamer Iroquis ran on a specially arranged schedule from Sydney and called at the various islands en route to Ganges Harbor, with the result that large crowds of the Islanders assembled at the show point at the time for the opening of the exhibition. The visitors from Victoria and adjacent island points were heartily welcomed by those who were in charge of affairs at Ganges Harbor, and after lunch had been served in the exhibition building, Hon. E. G. Prior, who was present from Victoria, in a brief but interesting speech, declared the exhibition open. Col. Prior congratulated those present on the circumstance that splendid weather had so largely contributed to the success of the show, and expressed the opinion that the exhibit made by the Islanders was one of the best which had yet come under his notice in the province. This remark was greeted with loud cheers. Col. Prior went on to remark that it afforded him great pleasure to be informed that there was a decided disposition manifested among the exhibitors to improve the quality of the live stock, and with marked success. He was also gratified to know that a lively interest was being displayed in dairying and creamery matters.

With these few remarks the Col. declared the seventh annual exhibition of the Island Agriculturists opened and the awarding of the prizes commenced.

The cattle, horses, and live stock generally was judged by Dr. S. F. Tolmie, whose decisions met with universal approval. The Doctor has been taking a great deal of interest in the provincial shows and whenever he has been called upon to exercise his professional ability he has invariably given the most complete satisfaction. Doctor Tolmie is an enthusiast over the possibilities of the Victoria show, and has been doing splendid missionary work wherever he has gone in attending to the provincial shows thus far held.

Mr. M. Baker of Victoria, was called upon to pronounce upon the fruit and vegetables, and performed his task in a manner highly satisfactory to everybody concerned. To a Colonist reporter Mr. Baker said that nothing too eulogistic could be recorded regarding the display of fruits and vegetables, which were, in his opinion, the equal of anything ever displayed at similar exhibitions on the Pacific Coast.

The agricultural hall at Ganges Harbor was, for the occasion, in the hands of Rev. E. F. Wilson, who displayed most artistic taste in the arrangement of the multifarious exhibits. The officers of the show were desirous that Mr. Wilson should be given full praise for his meritorious efforts in this regard, and it affords the Colonist equal pleasure to be able to contribute to that end.

Much of the credit for the success of the show is due to the president of the society, Mr. H. L. Robertson, Messrs. H. W. Bullock and P. Purvis, Ganges Harbor; H. Caldwell, North Salt Spring Island, and the directors, Rev. E. F. Wilson, H. Ruckle, E. Lee, T. Lee, J. Nightingale, W. E. Scott, J. A. Harrison, E. G. Benodally, Dr. Baker, E. Resmar, J. Fall Assizes Have Opened

A Light Docket of Minor Offences Will Occupy the Court.

The Grand Jury Brings in True Bill in the Hayes Case.

Mr. Justice Martin opened the Court of Assize yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. The docket is a light one, there being but a few cases, including one from the last assize, that of Nangle, which was again stood over. Nor are the indictments in the list of a serious nature, the damages resulting to an Indian woman as the outcome of a drunken brawl being about the most serious.

The Hayes case, however, may be considered the most interesting of the present sitting of the court. A true bill in this case was handed in by the grand jury, and it will probably be taken up to-day.

At the opening of court His Lordship had occasion to interrogate one tardy juror, who was not on hand at the proper moment, but as the gentleman explained that he was in the building at 11 o'clock, and had been there ever since, his excuse was taken as satisfactory, and the business of the court proceeded. Several exemptions from duty were claimed, and allowed in the parcel of jurors summoned to serve on the grand jury. The following were finally empanelled: Beaumont Boggs (foreman), H. F. Bullen, G. J. Burnett, F. Burrell, R. Dinsdale, E. Fleming, J. T. Higgins, E. A. Jacob, W. W. Lenfesty, J. G. Mann, E. F. Radiger and R. J. Russell.

His Lordship in addressing the grand jury referred to the prospects which he had seen on all sides of renewed prosperity in this part of the Dominion, and this he thought was a subject of congratulation. Having traveled very much over the entire area of the province, and being in a position to note that whereof he spoke, he felt bound to say that he was very much impressed with the prospects and resources of Vancouver Island.

Turning to the list of indictments which the grand jury would have to consider, His Lordship said there were few cases to occupy their attention, which, however, could not be taken as indicating a decrease in the criminal element of the community. Rather a reason must be looked for in the fact that many of the cases which were formerly sent up to the assize courts were being disposed of by Speedy trial.

His Lordship then briefly referred to the particular cases on the docket, and in mentioning the Hayes case pointed out the difference between receiving money under false pretences and theft. A petition had been received from residents complaining of the existence of gambling, and asking His Lordship to lay the matter before the grand jury. On this subject His Lordship had no remarks to make except to draw the attention of the grand jury to it, and at the same time to take occasion to refer to the method of dealing with the subject as somewhat unusual.

The grand jury then retired to consider the indictments in the various cases.

Rex. vs. Nangle, was then called. This is a case brought over from the last court, and is one in which Nangle is charged with doing grievous bodily harm to Louis Miller. Mr. H. B. Robertson, who was Crown prosecutor, asked to have the case again stood over, but S. P. Mills, K. C., who represented Nangle, objected to this unless the accused was allowed out on his own recognizances.

His Lordship allowed this, and Nangle was put under bonds and allowed to depart until next court of assize.

The grand jury returned into court and announced a true bill in the case of Rex. vs. Johnny, and that case was then proceeded with, Mr. Moresby, who appeared for the accused entered a plea of "Not Guilty."

Mr. Robertson, for the Crown, briefly outlined the case, and called Matilda, the Indian woman whom the accused is charged with having thrown out of a window at the Occidental hotel last June. As the witness was unable to talk "chinook" it was necessary to get an interpreter to translate her story into that jargon, and a second one to chinook it into English. By this circuitous route, and with much loss of time, the woman's version of the affair was obtained. Briefly it was that she had gone to the reserve to sleep with her sister, but owing to lack of accommodation had decided to come back to town to an hotel, and had asked the accused to row her across the harbor, which he did. The accused asked her to go to the Occidental hotel, and he would pay for the room; he asked her four times. She then left the canoe and went to the Occidental hotel. There were three of them, the man and a little girl called Helen. The prisoner returned with a bottle and poured her out a drink, but the liquor was too strong, having no water in it. She took two drinks. The man made improper proposals to her and she attempted to leave the room. Accused prevented her getting out. He threw her on the floor and kicked her, rendering her unconscious. The window was open when she went into the room. When she recovered consciousness she was in the room and it was daylight. She was very sick and sore. She could not move.

Witness was cross-examined by Mr. Moresby as to asking Johnny to bring her over in his canoe, and as to drinking whiskey in the canoe which she denied.

REX. VS. HAYES.

At this point the grand jury entered the chamber and presented a true bill in Rex vs. Hayes, at the same time announcing that as to the gambling petition they had decided to hand it to the police commissioner.

His Lordship, however, thought that perhaps it would be better for the jury to include this in the subjects dealt with in their presentment, which would be made later, and the petition was accordingly handed back to the grand jury.

The court then adjourned until 2 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SITTING.

On the court resuming at 2 o'clock, the examination of Matilda was continued, after which Helen a little Indian girl, was next examined by Mr. Robertson. She is not a Christian, and her evidence was taken after a warning from the bench that she must tell the truth. She remembered the night of the alleged assault. She, and Matilda, the injured woman, met Johnny on the Indian reserve at nightfall. They went with Johnny to the hotel, and went upstairs to a room. Johnny brought some whiskey and Matilda took two drinks. Johnny drank and got drunk, and would not let them leave the room. Accused grabbed hold of Matilda, who caught hold of the bed. Matilda fell on the floor, and the next thing she saw was Matilda falling out of the window. Looked out of the window and saw Matilda lying on the ground. She took $5 out of the purse and gave the money to Johnny. Johnny was walking about the room, and the girl asked him where the woman was. She wanted to get a key to get out of the room, but Johnny did not make any answer to the question as to where the woman was.

By Mr. Moresby—She did not know that the policeman had come, but Johnny went out of the door and went down stairs. He just went out once to get the whiskey. She had forgotten what she had said at the police court, and had forgotten lots that had taken place that night. They had a drink in the canoe which she thought was water, but it may have been whiskey. She did not know, but thought that the woman had some whiskey. She did not know how many drinks Johnny had. They had nothing on when they were drinking together. She did not see how Johnny put the woman on the floor, but saw him kick the woman. Johnny turned angry then. The woman did not want to have anything to do with Johnny, so Johnny got angry. Johnny took hold of the woman by the feet. She saw the window open and the woman lying out on the street. She had been with Matilda ever since, nobody had told her what to say. She was sitting on the bed and Johnny wanted to lie down on the bed, so she got up and walked around the room. She was a long time in the room before she could get out. The door was locked. She did not see any white man come in just after she saw the woman on the ground. Johnny did not fight with the white man.

Dr. Sherman Robertson—On the 30th June was called to St. Joseph's Hospital to see an Indian woman who had received some injuries, who complained of left wrist, her back and her left hip. She was placed under ether, and found a compound fracture of the left wrist, the bones sticking through the flesh. Could find no signs of injury to her back or hip. She could not move herself before being placed under ether. The injuries might have been produced by a fall. Recognized the Indian woman in court as the one he had treated.

William Thrasher, a gunner of the R. G. A., at Work Point Barracks, was called; remembers the 30th of June, they were going along the street towards Wharf street on that night. Saw the woman in court lying on the sidewalk. He and three others picked the woman up and while carrying her along, saw a man run out of the hotel. They gave chase and caught the man Johnny on the wharf, and brought him back to the hotel. The man Johnny was the prisoner in the dock. The Indian was awake in a corner when they caught him. Matilda had nothing but an undershirt on when picked up. There was blood on the back of Matilda's head.

By Mr. Moresby—Had been on the corner of Johnson and Store street for about 20 minutes. A short distance from where the woman was picked up. Did not hear any sound of a body falling. Johnny was not breathing heavily when he was found. It is the usual place for the Indians to moor their canoes where Johnny was found. He did not make any objection to being arrested; was bleeding when he was arrested, but did not complain of any injury. Did not hand witness any money or a watch. The woman was unconscious when picked up, and was very heavy.

Thomas W. Mitchell, another gunner of the R. G. A., was in company with Thrasher when the woman was picked up on Store street. He assisted to carry the woman. Saw a civilian run out of the hotel at the corner of Johnson and Store streets. The man ran down Wharf street towards the wharf. He ran to one end of the entrance to the wharf, and Thrasher went to the other. The prisoner at the dock is the man they secured.

Mr. Moresby—Had called out when passing the hotel, but had received no answer. Had heard no noise or any one crying. Had helped to carry the woman. Did not know if the man who ran away had any boots on, as it was too dark.

Sergt. R. H. Walker on the 30th June last went to the foot of Johnson street and found the Indian woman lying on Wharf street. She had only a chemise on. Mr. Dun and he carried the woman into the saloon, at the same time the Indian girl Matilda came down the stairs crying. They carried the woman upstairs. The accused was dressed in pants, shirt, and vest, and a hat. Found a coat and other articles of men's apparel in the room. The hat he could not recognize. The clothes on the bed were turned back, and the window of the room was opened. The woman was unconscious when picked up. The room is about 18 feet above the sidewalk.

By Mr. Moresby—The Indian was coming out of the hotel when they entered. The window blind was down and outside. There was a bottle in the room containing a very little gin. Searched the prisoner and he had neither money nor watch on him at the time. The woman was heavy to carry. There was a small table in the room under the window. It was a little higher than the window sill. On the way up to the police station the little child and the prisoner had some conversation. There was a small coal oil lamp in the room. Thought that a scuffle or laughing and talking could be heard from the street.

W. G. I. Dun, the proprietor of the Occidental hotel called, swore that the room referred to was about 18 feet above the sidewalk. Had seen the prisoner and the Indian woman at his house on the 30th of June. The Indian came in and asked for a room for himself, his klootchman and his little girl; he showed them room No. 36, after closing the window. Did not see the accused again until after the woman was found on the sidewalk. Had gone to bed at 10 o'clock and heard the noise on the sidewalk. Got up and looked out and saw the Indian woman lying on the sidewalk. The accused met him at the door, dressing himself. Went back and finished dressing, and went down to the sidewalk, where there were two soldiers and a civilian already. Carried the woman into the hotel. She had on only a chemise, and was unconscious. In going around the corner a man came out of the door, the man was the accused. Shouted to the man to stop, but the man continued to run towards Yates street. The woman was laid on the sidewalk and the other three chased the man. Shortly after they returned with the accused. The man was partially dressed when caught.

By Mr. Moresby—Heard a thud on the sidewalk about a minute before he went to the door, and not two minutes until he went down to the sidewalk. Had heard no noise when he passed the room on the way to his own. Could easily have heard any noise. When the accused met him at the door he had not his pants on, and was practically undressed altogether. When he went back into the room the blind was down and the window open. The table was about the same height as the window sill. The table was exactly two feet six high. Would not say that the man who ran out of the door was the accused. All three were together when they got the room. Did not know that the man had gone out after leaving him. He had not sold accused any liquor, nor had he seen any in the possession of the Indians. Witnesses' wife had been in their own room near No. 36 all evening and had not heard any noises.

This closed the case for the Crown, and Mr. Moresby opened the case for the defence.

Accused was then put in the dock, and sworn deposed that his name was Johnny and that he came from Sitka. Knew the woman in court, had known her for some time. He went to the dock at 9 o'clock at night. The woman asked him if he had a canoe, but he had not said anything. She spoke to him first. She said she had not seen her father. He brought the woman across the harbor in his canoe and went to the hotel. The woman went to the office and the proprietor wanted to know what they wanted, and they told him that the two women wanted a room. The proprietor wanted to know if they did not drink whiskey, and they said no. The proprietor then said he had some good whiskey, and opened a bottle. Accused loaned the woman 50c. The proprietor then said for the two women to go upstairs, and accused said, "good night" to the proprietor, who said he had better go upstairs, and the woman said to come upstairs with her. The proprietor wanted $1.00 for whiskey. The proprietor went upstairs and the three followed him; he lit the lamp and then went out. Accused did not sit down, but the two women sat down. The woman took hold of the bottle of whiskey and said she was host of the whiskey. She was often in Victoria drinking. She had a glass half ful of whiskey, and accused put half water in his, the woman drank her's straight. The woman wanted to give the girl whiskey, but he said no. She afterwards gave the whiskey to the little girl. He wanted to leave the room, as his brother was sick, but the woman started to take off his shoes and made him take his coat off. He went down below and saw a tall white man who said "hello." Accused asked for the lavatory, and was shown the way. The white man went with him. The white man asked him to buy some whiskey, but refused as there was whiskey upstairs; the white man had on a waiter's apron, and took hold of accused. The white man was drunk, and asked accused to go down to the wharf, but refused. Afterward accused went but was afraid to go down to the wharf, as he had some $60 with him. The woman knew that he had this money. Went down towards the wharf with the white man, who wanted him to go and get some whiskey. The white man then swore at him, and kicked him. The mark on his face was the result of one of these kicks. He lay there unconscious until two soldiers had took hold of him by the arm. He recovered consciousness and was getting up to go away when the soldiers took hold of him. Then the policeman took hold of him; saw the little girl crying and asked her what was the matter with her; said she wanted to see accused, and that he had been a long time going back upstairs. Then the policeman took him in charge. His watch, chain and charm had disappeared; he had paid $2 for the chain and 50c. for the charm.

By Mr. Robertson—He didn't take hold of the woman. Had on pants and vest and hat when the soldiers took hold of him. He had no shoes on when he went down stairs to the lavatory. He did not go upstairs again, and had not looked out of the window at the woman on the ground. Did not take hold of the woman before he left the room. Saw Mr. Dun just the one time when they engaged the room. He had not complained to the police about the robbery. He left his watch in the room in his coat when the woman took the latter from him. He could not tell how long it was between the time he went downstairs and the time the soldiers took hold of him. The woman borrowed the money from him to pay for the room. He did not go to bed but sat on a chair. He had never touched the woman that night; had had three drinks that night but the woman drank lots of it and there was no water with hers. The hat and clothes in court were his.

Officer Carson deposed that he was going past the Occidental hotel at 12:45 a. m., when he heard a woman laughing in a room upstairs, the window was up and there was smoke coming out of the window from a pipe. The window was the front from the Johnson street end of the building.

By Mr. Robertson—Was in the same room that morning at 2 o'clock with Sergt. Walker.

This closed the case for the defence, and Mr. Moresby proceeded to address the jury, and Mr. Robertson replied. His Lordship said that in order to avoid the possibility of having to lock the jury up for the night, he would postpone charging them until this morning at 10:30, to which hour the court then adjourned.

THEIR FAULTY SYSTEM.

Tightness of Money in the States Caused by Bankers.

"There will always be periodical tightness of money in the United States as long as the Americans cling to their present banking system, and in that a change is no doubt very remote."

This opinion was expressed a few days ago in the Montreal Gazette by Mr. Thomas Fyshe, general manager of the Merchants Bank of Canada, who had just reached the city from an extended trip through Manitoba and the Canadian Northwest, where he had ample opportunities of judging the conditions involving the moving of the great wheat and corn crops of Canada and the United States.

In visiting the several agencies Mr. Fyshe made it a point to drive over a large territory tributary to the various banking centres, and from money-lender, farmer and newly-arrived settler the same report of general contentment and prosperity was obtained.

"Will the Canadian banking facilities be sufficient to cope with the moving of Canada's great crop?"

"It would be sufficient," he said, "should the crop be ten times as extensive as it is to-day, although the case is different with our American friends."

Mr. Fyshe proceeded to explain that although there was a great deal of money in the Western States, as had been claimed, yet these funds were generally deposited in New York and other Eastern banks; and though the Westerners were drawing against their own money to meet the wants of crop-moving, this fact alone created these temporary periods of stringency which might be avoided, as had been already intimated, under a different banking system.

"The Americans have large banks, but in a sense not as large as Canadians. The great difficulty is in the centralizing of United States money, instead of having it scattered all over the country. If they had large banks, such as exist in Canada, with branches all over the Republic, they would be able to collect funds when not required, and bring money into use when the circumstances call for it, thus producing the effect of equalizing the value of money all over the United States."

Mr. Fyshe then explained the prominent part that Canadians played in the United States whenever these stringent periods came upon the money market of the neighboring Republic. He denied, however, that Canada was ever called upon to make the least sacrifice or suffered financially when the high price of money in New York prompted the banks of the Dominion to send millions for use in that market.

He did not think that any Canadian bank would think of withdrawing money that was out on call in Montreal, Toronto or elsewhere in this country, and send it for the same purpose to New York or Chicago.

Returning to a discussion of the different banking systems of this continent, Mr. Fyshe was asked if the champions of the Canadian system were not making some headway in the United States, but he could not answer in the affirmative. Mr. Forgan, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, he said, was talking about this matter while in Montreal recently, and that gentleman, who favors the Canadian system, remarked that although he had been asked to read papers on the subject, little if any attention was paid to them. In a word, Mr. Fyshe is not hopeful of a change in the near future, saying that public opinion was evidently behind the answer given to a committee of congress.

A New York bank president, when asked if they could not get some hints from Canada, replied: "Yes, when the eagle comes to take advice from humming birds."

As far as Canada's future is concerned, Mr. Fyshe is not at all apprehensive, and declared that the banks will be ready for all possible increase in the Dominion's development, great as it will certainly be. He said that while in the West he had visited the Edmonton district, which he describes as a magnificent country for farming and ranching operations. Some losses, he said, had been sustained by hail storms, and it was estimated that this would figure up to several hundred thousand bushels. Crops were just as good on the Saskatchewan as in Manitoba, and the land was even stronger than in the Prairie Province.

RUSSIA TROUBLESOME.

English Officers Ordered to Rejoin Their Commands in India.

British military activities in India have been given a sudden impetus by the alleged determination of Russia to force an early test of the quality of Great Britain's foreign policy as affected by the withdrawal of the uncompromising hand of Lord Salisbury. In pursuance of its traditional method of pushing its adversary's patience to the limit, the government at St. Petersburg, according to reports, is feverishly busy stirring the embers of discord wherever it sees an opportunity for inflaming British susceptibilities.

It has seized upon a disturbance with the police on the Indian frontier as a pretext for hurrying battalions of Cossacks southward to the border of Afghanistan. The Czar interrupted the Shah's junket in Paris, ostensibly to secure his attendance at the military manoeuvres at Kursk, but actually, it is believed, to discuss the need of a Russian railway to the Persian Gulf.

Reports from Sebastopol tell of inordinate efforts to strengthen the Russian naval power in the Black Sea.

The recent jingo speech in Corsica by M. Pelletan, French minister of marine, is interpreted as a sign that France is ready to join its ally in this subtle game of baiting the British. Finally comes the announcement that Baron de Stael, the venerable Russian ambassador to the Court of St. James, is about to be succeeded by "a man of more vigorous character."

This widespread recrudescence of Russian political energy is attributed by English diplomatists to a desire on the part of the Czar's ministers to learn how stern is the stuff of which the foreign policy of Mr. Balfour and Lord Lansdowne is made. No one fears that Russia will press its case anywhere beyond the point necessary to secure this desired information; nevertheless, the British war and navy departments are alive to the possibilities of Russia's efforts deliberately to irritate the situation.

Scores of military officers in England and South Africa have been ordered to rejoin their Indian commands. Major Fukushima, of the Japanese army, has arrived in Calcutta to familiarize himself with the Indian military situation. Lord Kitchener will hasten his journey to India, abandoning his proposed halt at Khartoum on the way.
